WE have suggested on one or two ocin West Virginia are not altogether 'harmless as doves." It would also seem that they are not as "wise as ser-pents," although they may resemble them in some other respects. They have not managed their public meetings even tolerably well. Indeed they have been quite unfortunate in the results of them. They have been entirely too latitudinous in their invitationshaving called upon "Union men without distinction of party" to attend. For example they had a meeting not long since at Kingwood, at which the hon-orable Wm. G. Brown was chief orator. We learn that after Mr. Brown had spoken his piece, the people, whose aptite for political pabulum was not satisfied by his vague generalities, called out James C. McGrew, Esq., who after repeated calls got up and made a speech of about two hours, at the end of which there wasn't much left of the servatives or their orator. After Mr. McGrew had finished, the resolutions, which were all "cut and dried," of the regular "copper-colored stripe," were offered, and overwhelmingly rote

The meeting at Morgantown, held a week or two since, although called in the interests of the Copperheads, (to af-ford them an opportunity of endorsing a President they were denouncing a few months before,) was found to be at the mercy of the Union men before it was over. The Union men present, being in the majority with a view of easting ridicule on the meeting, called out a man who had but recently returned from Dixie, and who feeling ented by this mark of esteem, delivered himself at considerable length much to the chagrin of the original much to the chagrin of the original managers.

We learn that a "Conservative" meeting was held a week or two since at Jackson C. H., which was addressed by Colonei. Ben. Smith of Kanawha. The resolutions in the regular form were offered at the proper time and voted down by a deceded voice!

The "Conservative Mass Meeting" at Fairmont last week was another case of the same unfortunate kind. On that occasion the invitation was especially board—"Union men, Republicans, Whigs, Democrata," men of all parties—so we are told—were invited. And they went, it appears. (A letter which we publish this morning shows how the first appointment for this meeting failed on account of its having been set for Sunday, and how Squire Tompkins got into the "wrong pew." After the Conservative speakers had recited their pieces, the committee reported the resolutions (which had gone out from this city on the morning train) and when they were decidedly voted down by the Union well as the proper time and the proper time and the insurgent Lee gives us some eliasiph into the real condition of the South, in his testimony before the reconstruction committee. He conveyed the insurgent States are such that occasion the invitation was especially and feeling of the people of the insurgent States are such that they went is a fair opportunity they might revolt again. There is no loyality of learn—no respect borne by them for learn

We don't know whether any other Conservative meetings have miscarried thirty-one thousand of them shouldered their muskets to promote these objects with their lives. They therefore attended meetings called apparently to make good what they have fought for through the rebellion. But when they came together and listened to the insidious and disloyal and treasonable harangues with which the copperhead orators sought to beguile them, they saw the viper beneath the flower-and they put their foot on him!

And they will put their foot down

Senator Van Winkle. A statement was sent out to the country a few days since by the agent of the Associated Press, and appeared in this, as in other public journals, that Senator Van Winkle of West Virginla was one of the Vice Presidents of the Johnson Club, recently organized in Washington. We are requested to state, on the authority of Mr. Van Winkle himself, that the statement is not true. He was amnounced as one of the Vice Presidents of the Club, without his knowledge or consent, and as soon as the fact came to his knowledge, had his name.

the political results of the Connecticut election are likely to be important. It was because both parties perceived this fact that the contest was of almost unprecedented severity. The Legislature just elected are to choose a United States Senator. That of itself was enough to lend a marked interest to the struggle. But that did not chiefly attract the attention either of to the struggle. But that did not chiefly attract the attention either of the citizens of Connecticut or of those of other States. All eyes were turned to the gabernatorial contest, yet not mainly because of their personal interactions and the grave question was to be desired, whether, even in the face of formidable obstacles, the Union party of Connecticut would abandon its principles on many success, and fall to march on to triumple, as it marched for so many success, the union party of Connecticut would abandon its principle company, at the Post office to pon the politics of the whole country would be most marked. The Democratis would then take new courage, would be listed to pieces, and would enter upon their campaign with new prospects of success. But it will now be seen that the differences between the President and Congress cannot turn the Union men from the great principles on which they have acted, but that they will remain trus to them to the last. THE Democratic newspapers of the country are very fond of charging that the Republican press willfully misrepresent the South, and present in their columns "mere conclusions of South-ern sentiment." In order to show the falsity of these charges we quote a few extracts from late Southern journals, ested on one or two oc"conservative" friends
"conservative" friends porters. The Mobile Forsyth's paper, says:

Forsyth's paper, says:

The South will not purchase political privileges to which it is entitled by the Constitution of the country, at the price of dishonor. Indeed, the South has made all the concessional than the control of the country, at the price of the concession of the country of the past, and second, because it has done enough, and second, because it has done enough, and second, because it has done enough, and accord, because it has done of the internal control of the future if we would submit to certain conditions and cortain political brather-hood the future if we would submit to certain conditions the work of the bard, because they were yeard to traditional habits and instincts.
